Such arrangements can at all times be made by persons who can give satisfactory references as to character and standing. In addition to the above a charge of fifty (50) cents will be made to each student for each of the two winter Quarters, to defray the expenses of keeping up the fires in the school rooms. They will also furnish themselves with light and fuel for their own rooms.

UNION SEMINARY.

This Institution is situated in New Berlin, the former county-seat of Union county, Pa. It is the opinion of all who know the town and the character of its inhabitants, that a more eligible place could not be found for conducting successfully an Institution of Learning. The place is healthful and retired; the surrounding scenery is beautiful and romantic; and the citizens are kind and generous, moral and religious.

It is the object of those having the school in charge, to raise its character, so that it will rank among the first of the intermediate grade. It makes no pretensions to being a college, as many schools of similar grade do; we aim merely to prepare students carefully for the higher classes in college, for teaching, for business, or for the study of a profession. The course of instruction embraces the Latin, Greek, French and German Languages, the common and higher English branches. Vocal and Instrumental Music, Drawing, Painting, &c. A sufficiently large corps of teachers will at all times be employed to give the students the instruction that they may need, and care will be taken that the instruction be thorough and practical. What is merely showy or superficial will be discarded from the curriculum of studies—only such a course will be pursued as will make the students stronger—mentally, morally and physically—and will qualify him to act his part well in life. It is our wish that our students, when leaving the Institution, aim at usefulness, and whether they be called to a high position in life, or enter upon an humble sphere, that they endeavor to fill their respective positions with credit to themselves and their friends. The idea is constantly held forth to them, that this is a world of labor, and that he is the great man who accomplishes the most good. In short, we want Union Seminary to be, not only a Literary Institution, but a Christian Institution in its broadest sense, and we want her children to go forth prepared to labor with hand, head and heart for God and man.

Discipline.

The discipline of the school is of a parental character. As the Principal would have others do to his children if he would place them in charge of others, so will he do to those who are given in charge to him. No useless regulations will be made, nothing unreasonable will be required from the students; nothing but what is for their own good will be aimed at in the Institution. We expect them to be orderly, attentive to their studies, prompt in their duties, respectful to their teachers and associates, and in all things we want them to reflect credit on the school. In cases of wayward students, we will bear with them as long as possible, endeavor to correct and reform them, admonish and reprove them, and thus save them, for future usefulness. When efforts of this kind fail, we will proceed to use other means, the last of which will be suspension or expulsion. The Principal is assisted and advised by a Board of Counsellors, consisting of several of the best men of the place, and in all extreme cases, he will consult with them and be governed by their advice. "In a multitude of counsellors there is safety."

Boarding.

The Principal has opened a Boarding House for the accommodation of students from abroad. He desires to have them in his family so that he can have them more under his personal influence. He will not be responsible for their conduct or progress under any other circumstances. Parents and Guardians will please make no arrangements with private parties before consulting with him on this subject. Students on coming to town will be expected to report to him who will receive them into his house or assign them to other Boarding Houses, as he may think proper.

As proper treatment contributes greatly to cheerfulness and alacrity in students, it is endeavored by kindness and attention to their personal comfort, to make them feel as much at home as circumstances will allow. Their rooms are large and airy, and comfortably furnished; they receive good and wholesome food; they are required to keep themselves clear and decently clad, and in cases of sickness they will receive skillful medical treatment and careful nursing.

Religious Instruction.

The school is under the auspices of the Evangelical Association, but is not, strictly speaking, a sectarian school. We aim to raise the standard of Education among our own people and also to promote the cause among the people at large. We believe that proper Education is the handmaid of religion, and whilst we are primarily engaged in developing the mental faculties of our students, we are constantly urging them to seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, assuring them that all other good will be added thereto. It is expected that students will attend Sabbath School or Bible class and Church at least once each Sabbath. There are six churches in the place, viz: Evangelical, Lutheran, Reformed, Methodist, Presbyterian and United Brethren, either of which the students are permitted to attend.

Literary Societies, Libraries, Apparatus, &c.

There are two Literary Socities, the EXCELSIOR and NEOCOSMIAN, and one Biblical Society, connected with the Institution, which meet weekly for mutual improvement and the transaction of business. Each Literary Society has its own Hall, and a good Library. The Libraries belonging to the Institution number about three thousand Volumes. There is also a considerable amount of Philosophical and Chemical Apparatus which will be used as it may be needed.

To Applicants for Admission.

In becoming connected with the Institution, we will expect you to become identified with our interests, and as we will feel under obligations to labor constantly and indefatigably for the promotion of your interests, so we will expect you to reciprocate in some measure, our efforts for your good. Unless we can co-operate, we would better not be associated. We will require nothing unreasonable from you, and we will expect no unnecessary trouble from you. Our laborous will be arduous enough in training and developing your minds without giving us unealled for care and vexation. We will treat you kindly; we will expect you to deserve such treatment.—We would prefer you to be Christians—if we can not have you such, we will want you at least to be ladies and gentlemen in the true sense of those much used and much abused words. In order that you may understand what will be expected from you, we give you a few of the principal regulations which you will be expected to observe:

1. You will be expected to report promptly, whenever you may be called, at study, recitations, chapel service, roll call, &c.

2. You will be expected to be reasonably well prepared at all your recitations, and to be respectful to your teachers whilst you may be under their charge.

3. You will be expected to refrain entirely from all intoxicating drinks, and if you have not yet contracted the pernicious habit of using tobacco, you are not to form it, at least while a student of Union Seminary.

4. You will not be allowed to play at games of chance, such as cards, dominoes, dice, &c., nor use any vulgar or profane language, carry fire-arms or other deadly weapons, or do any other act that will bring discredit on the students or demoralize the school.

5. You are expected to keep your room and its furniture in good condition, and if you do any damage to the buildings or the furniture it will be repaired at your expense.

6. You are expected to be attentive to all the exercises of the school, to which your attention is called, and by your general conduct show yourself a worthy student of the school

7. For all privileges, such as paying visits to friends, being excused from duty, extra instruction, &c., you are to apply to the Principal, who will at all times be pleased to grant such privileges as will not conflict with your own good, or the regulations of the Institution.

8. You are expected to attend Sabbath School or Bible Class and Public Service at least once each Sabbath. If you are not yet a Christian, we want you to place yourself under such influences as will lead you to become one.

9. In short, you are expected to be faithful in study, punctual in attendance, exemplary in conduct—"IN ALL THINGS TO DO RIGHT."

To Parents and Guardians.

In committing your children to our care, you manifest a confidence in us which we will strive to merit. We will endeavor to act the part of a parent toward your children, and we hope you will co-operate with us in bringing them under proper discipline. Students will sometimes become discontented, and then they will write home unfavorable accounts of the school, generally having no foundation but their own morbid imagination. If such should be the case with your children, we hope that you will be candid with us, and communicate to us at once what they complain of. We have nothing to conceal in regard to the school—all that we want is the full truth to be known.

It is our earnest desire that you insist on your children staying until the last day of the term for which they have entered. The concluding exercises are often the most interesting; besides, if they are allowed to leave school according to their whims or caprices, they will be likely to become indifferent students; discipline will become irksome to them; and they will fail of acquiring that strength of character which a well arranged system of discipline and self-denial will form.

A regular record is kept of the attendance, conduct, improvement, recitations, &c., of the student. A report will be furnished Parents and Guardians at the end of each term, provided their children stay until the close of the term. It is hoped by this means to obtain their co-operation in our endeavors to promote studious habits, orderly deportment, and regular attendance.

Parents are requested to write to their children frequently, urging them to cheerful compliance with the regulations of the school, and urging upon them habits of obedience, industry and frugality.

Parents should not be too liberal in furnishing their children with pocket money, as their real wants are very few, which are not furnished by the Institution. The spending of money is a fruitful source of evil to the young, who are allowed to indulge in it; and it should be discountenanced by all, who are in way engaged in training them.

By observing these few suggestions, which we think are reasonable, you can assist us very much in the arduous work which you have given us to do, as well as promote the best interests of your own children.

Sessions, Vacations &c.

The School year is divided into four Sessions of eleven weeks each, commencing next year as follows:

Miscellaneous.

The best means of reaching New Berlin is by stage from Northumberland on the P. & E. R. R. There is also stage connection with Lewistown on the P. C. R. R. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. It is expected that the Lewisburg and Spruce Creek Railroad and also the Sunbury and Lewistown Railroad will be opened within six months when we will have Railroad connections within five miles of the school.

Students would do well to inform us of the exact time of their coming, so that we can make arrangements to have them transported from Northumberland.

Each student should come prepared with a few towels, a change of pillow slips, and a change of sheets. He should also be supplied with an umbrella, a pair of overshoes, a pair of slippers and a Bible.

All articles of clothing should be distinctly marked.

Text Books and Staticnery will be furnished at the regular retail prices.
